PROPERTY HISTORY

Mercy Hospital, located in Mid-City New Orleans, has a long and rich history in the city. In the mid 1800s New Orleans had a well-earned reputation as the unhealthiest place in the country. Hot, humid summers, open sewers and cramped living conditions bred disease, and yellow fever epidemics were common. In 1869, six Sisters of Mercy journeyed from St. Louis to New Orleans to teach Irish students at St. Alphonsus School. In the aftermath of the Civil War and the epidemics of the 1870s, the Sisters developed a health care ministry, daycare for working mothers, an orphanage and a shelter for elderly women and those seeking employment.

The nuns had operated a hospital on Annunciation Street in the Lower Garden District since 1924, and in 1949 purchased the land in Mid-City for $280,000 with plans to build a new 219-bed hospital, Mercy Hospital was then opened and was staffed by the Sisters for the next 70 years. By the late 1970s, the Sisters established or became involved with a series of outreach ministries in New Orleans. In 1994, it merged with Southern Baptist hospital and was acquired by Tenet Healthcare Corporation and renamed it in honor of Lindy Boggs, the former U.S. congresswoman and ambassador to the Vatican.

The Sisters continued teaching children at St. Alphonsus until August 2005, when Hurricane Katrina hit. The school served as a temporary shelter for those who didn't evacuate. It reopened in January 2006 as an early childhood education center. Today, Mercy Family Center, an outpatient behavioral health clinic for adolescents and their families, founded by Sister Sarah Ducey, RSM, still serves the community.

MID-CITY NEIGHBORHOOD

North of the hustle and bustle of the French Quarter is a New Orleans neighborhood that's perfected the art of living. As one of the final neighborhoods in New Orleans to be developed, Mid-City retains a more local and diverse atmosphere today. The area grew extensively in the the last 20 or 30 years – transforming from swamps to a quirky, town-like area filled with colorful homes. What used to be the “backatown” is now a thriving New Orleans neighborhood with a vibe all its own.

“Welcome to Mid-City,” read the signs on the neutral ground as you enter the historic Mid-City neighborhood. Take the streetcar line, which runs up Canal, kayak through the calm waters of Bayou St. John, or bike the new 2.6-mile-long Lafitte Greenway that stretches from Basin Street to Carrollton Avenue and, conveniently, past a po' boy shop or two – or 17 – with a sno-ball shop and a micro-brewery thrown in for good measure.

- It seeks your consent to allow the real estate agent to act as a disclosed dual agent.

The undersigned buyer (or lessee) and seller (or lessor) acknowledge that they were informed of the possibility of this type of representation. The licensee(s) will undertake this representation only with the written consent of ALL clients in the transaction.

Any agreement between the clients as to a final contract price and other terms is a result of negotiations between the clients acting in their own best interests and on their own behalf. The undersigned buyer (or lessee) and seller (or lessor) acknowledge that the licensee(s) has explained the implications of dual representation, including the risks involved. Customer Information Form

What Customers Need to Know When Working With Real Estate Brokers or Licensees

This document describes the various types of agency relationships that can exist in real estate transactions.

AGENCY means a relationship in which a real estate broker or licensee represents a client by the client's consent, whether expressed or implied, in an immovable property transaction. An agency relationship is formed when a real estate licensee works for you in your best interest and represents you. Agency relationships can be formed with buyers/sellers and lessors/lessees.

DESIGNATED AGENCY means the agency relationship that shall be presumed to exist when a licensee engaged in any real estate transaction, except as otherwise provided in LA R.S. 9:3891, is working with a client, unless there is a written agreement providing for a different relationship.

- The law presumes that the real estate licensee you work with is your designated agent, unless you have a written agreement otherwise.
- No other licensees in the office work for you, unless disclosed and approved by you.
- You should confine your discussions of buying/selling to your designated agent or agents only.

DUAL AGENCY means an agency relationship in which a licensee is working with both buyer and seller or both landlord and tenant in the same transaction. Such a relationship shall not constitute dual agency if the licensee is the seller of property that he/she owns or if the property is owned by a real estate business of which the licensee is the sole proprietor and agent. A dual agency relationship shall not be construed to exist in a circumstance in which the licensee is working with both landlord and tenant as to a lease that does not exceed a term of three years and the licensee is the landlord. Dual agency is allowed only when informed consent is presumed to have been given by any client who signed the dual agency disclosure form prescribed by the Louisiana Real Estate Commission. Specific duties owed to both buyer/seller and lessor/lessee are:

- To treat all clients honestly.
- To provide factual information about the property.
- To disclose all latent material defects in the property that are known to them.
- To help the buyer compare financing options.
- To provide information about comparable properties that have sold, so that both clients may make educated buying/selling decisions.
- To disclose financial qualifications to the buyer/lessee to the seller/lessor.
- To explain real estate terms.
- To help buyers/lessees arrange for property inspections
- To explain closing costs and procedures.

CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION means information obtained by a licensee from a client during the term of a brokerage agreement that was made confidential by the written request or written instruction of the client or is information the disclosure of which could materially harm the position of the client, unless at any time any of the following occur:

- The client permits the disclosure by word or conduct.
- The disclosure is required by law or would reveal serious defect.
- The information became public from a source other than the licensee.

By signing below you acknowledge that you have read and understand this form and that you are authorized to sign this form in the capacity in which you have signed.
